Our Support Undertakings:

In our capacity as Prime Contractor, Syntech IT will take ownership of all problems relating to the computer system implementations carried out by Syntech IT. This means that, Syntech IT will identify, diagnose and correct, or arrange to be corrected, any problems found with the implementation. This gives the client the convenience of a single point of contact for all problem resolution.

Time and materials spent by Syntech IT staff identifying, resolving and managing such problems may incur additional charges at our prevailing rates. We do not usually apply such charges if there is no overall impact on any project implementation.

Syntech IT does not accept responsibility or cost for problems that have their cause in any of the following items:

1. Any faults found with power, network or telephone cabling. We will diagnose, identify and if appropriate repair or arrange the repair of such faults.
2. Any problems with the internal operation or integration of any application program or software (including Microsoft Windows and Office applications), our responsibility for such software is limited to:
 - a. Installation of the software according to instructions provided by the manufacturer.
 - b. Integration of the software into the network environment according to instructions provided by the manufacturer.
 - c. Ensuring that a suitable backup and restore facility exists and is implemented for the software.
 - d. Performing initial problem diagnosis to determine whether the problem is internal to the software or external. Many problems are solved in this phase.
 - e. Contacting the software manufacturer or distributor to raise a support call as needed.
 - f. Following up such support calls until either a solution or suitable workaround procedure is found.
 - g. Applying such fixes as are supplied by the manufacturer or distributor.
 - h. Obtaining approval of the client prior to incurring additional costs.
 - i. Liaison with the client on the status of problems and any additional costs involved.

For Microsoft products Syntech IT has greater expertise and access to support materials for problem resolution. We will use our best endeavors to resolve problems, but cannot accept responsibility for errors introduced and not corrected by the Microsoft (or any other) software developers. Our experience is that less than 1% of problems result in additional cost.

In summary, Syntech IT will ensure that the environment is correct for software operation. The technical support staffs of the software manufacturer are responsible for in-depth problem resolution.

3. Any problems or additional work caused by variations in any project definitions or guidelines after commencement.
4. Any problems or additional work caused by errors introduced or equipment provided by any third parties. Our responsibilities are the same as for 2 above.
